*I*t is with great pleasure that I present the seventeenth volume of the UCLA Historical Journal. The material in this general issue presents a number of diverse and interesting articles that demonstrates some to the intriguing new research being done by graduate students today.

This has been an exciting and rewarding task, and I would like to thank all the people who have helped bring it to a successful conclusion. Jennifer Koslow and Doris Namala have their tireless dedication to this project. Also, the article reviewers represent a wide spectrum of graduate students in the history department here at UCLA who have selflessly donated their time and effort to make sure that the articles selected for publication are of the highest quality. Eric Altice, Chris Bates, Donna Binkiewicz, Connie Chen, Derek Denardo, Laura Emerson Talamante, Corey Hollis, Daniel Hurewitz, Jennifer kalish,m Matthias Klein, D'Art Phares, Anastasia Simmons, Michael Soller, Anna Suranyi, Greg Vanderbilt, and Steve Wardinski all thoughtfully and carefully reviewed essays and gave the necessary constructive feedback to help make selecting these articles from a group of high-quality submissions possible.

This issue could not have been published without the patience and skill of Karen Wickman at UCLA Mail and Document Services. Munir A. Shaikh, GSA director of publications, has been a reliable source of advice and financial support. Finally, I would like to express my appreciation to all those who have helped in innumerable ways to make the Journal a success.
